Date	18 sep 2026
Time	1:30 PM
Venue	Offline

Event Overview

Code Red ❤️🗣️ was conducted on 18 September 2026 near the Buddha Statue at 1:30 PM as part of TinkerHub's anti-ragging awareness initiatives. The session was organized as an interactive activity for senior students, focusing on creative writing and slogan-making around the theme of anti-ragging.

The session provided participants with an opportunity to express their thoughts and perspectives on building a safe, respectful, and inclusive campus through meaningful slogans and creative writing. The activity encouraged students to reflect on the effects of ragging and communicate messages promoting friendship, respect, and positive interactions among students.

The session brought senior students together in a fun and engaging environment, encouraging creativity, participation, and meaningful discussions. It contributed to strengthening awareness about the importance of a supportive and respectful campus culture while providing students with a creative way to share their message against ragging.

Objectives

- To create awareness about the negative impact of ragging.
- To encourage students to express their views through creative writing and slogans.
- To promote respect, friendship, safety, and inclusivity among students.
- To encourage senior students to contribute towards a positive campus culture.
- To provide an interactive and engaging platform for anti-ragging awareness.
